Cinderella

In the story Cinderella, a girl named Cinderella has a wicked stepmother and two mean stepsisters. She has to do all the work, but the others don't do anything. One night, there is a fancy ball that the others are going to. Cinderella must help them get ready, but she is not allowed to go. After they leave for the ball, a little fairy appears and gives Cinderella a ball gown, glass slippers, and a special coach made from a pumpkin to ride in to the ball. These things will only last until midnight, so she must leave the ball by then. At the ball, the prince falls in love with her, but when she hurries to leave, she loses a slipper. The prince comes the next day to find the person the slipper fits. They get married and live happily ever after.

The Emperor's New Clothes

In The Emperor's New Clothes, an emperor wants a new outfit. He gives a tailor three days to make it. The tailor can't do the job so fast, but he wants a rich reward, so he lies. He tells the emperor's advisors he made an outfit that is so special that only the bravest or wisest men can see it, but there really is no outfit at all. The advisers and the emperor pretend to see it so people won't think them foolish. When the emperor leaves the castle, people bow and say nothing, but one little girl asks her mother why the man is only wearing his underthings. The people laugh, and the emperor learns his lesson. Now, he only hires people he can trust, including the little girl who will always be honest with him.
