

Bucks use their antlers to show off and spar with other males. They shed them after mating season to grow a new, bigger set next year

